

Professional Development Series

Writing for Professional Nursing Journals

So you want to be an author? In this hands-on workshop explore your motivation and build your confidence as a professional writer for a nursing journal. Some of the topics covered include the following: Learn how to avoid the six common obstacles in scholarly writing and ways to overcome each; define the five “P’s” of effective writing for a scholarly journal; discuss manuscript preparation and how to avoid some pitfalls; and participate in peer discussion and review. Bring one or more ideas that you would like to write about and share your clinical experience with others as you process and practice focused writing to convey how you think, decide your main point, integrate literature, report research and apply your knowledge to clinical practice.

Friday, August 14, 8 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Fee: $47, before August 3; $77 thereafter. Includes all materials and handouts. 3.5 contact hours. Lunch is on your own.
